Civic eState

Pooling the urban commons as civic patrimony

The Civic eState network is one of 25 “Transfer Networks” approved by URBACT in April 2018. Civic eState is the URBACT transfer network whose purpose is to transfer through adaptation a Good Practice realized by the City of Naples.

The Civic eState network is centered on the policy challenge of co-designing and co-producing with City inhabitants legal and sustainability tools for urban commons governance. The urban commons are tangible and intangible assets, services, infrastructures that are considered by the City of Naples as of collective belonging that are taken away to the “exclusive use” proprietary logic and characterized by a shared and participatory administration, as well as collective ownership. The revitalization of the urban historical heritage represents a cultural, economic and social challenge, but also a spur for the city to re-elaborate its identity creating a new bond with the citizenship and private/entrepreneurial sector.
